It has been proposed that the functional decline observed in aging might be in part related to the loss of neuronal network excitability. Recently, spontaneous activity of the suprachiasmatic nucleus (SCN), the biological clock, has been shown to decline with age in rodents. The purpose of the current study was to examine the effect of social isolation (SI) on the SCN neuronal activity in male C57BL/6 mice. The number of c-Fos expressing neurons (indicating neuronal activation) was compared between SCN of mice isolated for 1 week, 3 weeks or 1 month. The results indicated that the number of c-Fos-expressing neurons significantly decreased in the suprachiasmatic nucleus of mice kept in isolation for 1 month, but not in mice kept in isolation for 3 weeks. These results suggest that SI has an effect on the SCN in a time-dependent manner.[Hepatic resections in patients with fulminant hepatic failure]. Long-term results of resection of liver were analysed in 43 patients (up to March 2009) with irreversible hepatic coma. After admission to the clinic, an urgent liver transplantation was performed in 21 patients (group A). In 22 patients (group B), a liver resection was performed after the beginning of coma and after decision for a transplantation. The immediate postoperative period was uneventful in 36 patients and 11 patients died. After the operation, 5 and 4 patients in group A and group B, respectively, died. In group A, the overall 1-, 3-, 5-years survival rates were 30.8, 10.5, 6.9%, respectively. The overall 1-, 3-, 5-years survival rates in group B were 69.2, 22.7, 12.2%, respectively. Liver resection in patients with fulminant hepatic failure is associated with high risk of death and should be used with caution.From the Lady with a Blue Dress from the Lady with a Blue Dress is an album by American jazz saxophonist Pharoah Sanders recorded in 1974 for the GRP label.
